Seventh-grader Tony Huie, 13, held masks made by him and his classmates before the start of the "Travel the World" pageant Wednesday. It was held at the Ramsey International Fine Arts Center school in south Minneapolis in conjunction with the Heart of the Beast Puppet Theatre of Minneapolis. More than 300 children in grades six through eight took part in "Travel the World." They made their own costumes and masks to reflect the imagery and history of the world's cultures.
